Re: This week in Distance Learning

Dear Anaheim Elementary School District Families,

Today marks the start of a new week in Distance Learning. We hope that you have been able to establish a good routine for your child and that they are making progress each day. To assist you in supporting your child, we would like to share the following resources with you:

Continuity of Learning Schedule:

- You can access a grade-specific learning schedule to help support your child's Distance Learning routine. The schedule can be found at aesd.org/learning-schedule

AEED YouTube Channel:

We have a YouTube Channel (Anaheim Elementary) with a library full of original educational videos created by our staff. Additionally, there are new videos that are streamed live each week to support our e²STEAM-D instructional focus:

- Tuesdays, 3:30pm (Technology)
"Let's Make Some Games" - An ongoing series in how to make games. Whether in Scratch, Mario Maker, Animal Crossing, or beyond; we cover the theory of game design and programming to encourage kids to explore creativity and art in the gaming worlds they love
- Wednesdays, 3:30pm (Technology)
"Search it Up" - A stream of a different kind, this show focuses on a 3D Printer making a mystery object. During the print, different clues will be released asking kids to use their research skills to try to guess what is being printed. Winners will be randomly chosen to receive the 3D printed prize!
- Thursdays, 3:30pm (Art)
"Simple Art At Home" - Together we will create art projects with things that you might have just laying around the house. Follow along with us and make some art, and if you don't have the supplies you can just relax and watch.

Kind regards,
Dr. Christopher Downing
